

Greetings To All Army Birddog Unit Vietnam Era Veterans

Your service is already a part of our history. Now you have the opportunity to formally commemorate it.

Through the efforts of volunteers representing all 11 of the units whose insignia are shown above, we have designed a memorial to the Army Birddog aviation companies that served in the Republic of Vietnam. The memorial will be placed in the Ft. Rucker Memorial Park, across from the Army Aviation Museum. This is a private, non-governmental project and has no official connection with, or sponsorship by, the Aviation Museum itself.

Please click on the video below to see just where the Monument will be placed in the park.

The monument will be made of gray marble with polished black marble plates....12 of them....11 to depict the unit information and the 12th to briefly tell the story of the Army Birddog. We have ordered a bronze Birddog sculpture to be placed on top.

The following url will lead you to monument drawings and plates.

With your help, we can create a lasting memorial to the men, the units and the aircraft that were such an important part of our lives. The cost of the monument, including installation, including the Birddog sculpture, will be about $36,500. We are confident that the entire amount can be raised through contributions from our unit veterans and friends. There is no minimum contribution and any amount will help. Donations are tax deductible.

Norm MacPhee of the 220th Aviation Company, a retired CPA, will do the accounting and donor record keeping. The Army Aviation Museum Foundation*, Inc. will receive and disburse funds for the monument.
